FACT360 are pleased to announce their official partnership with Microsoft to launch the Fact360 Wellness app. Historically, FACT360 is well known for utilising Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Machine Learning (ML) technology to analyse communication networks such as emails and live chats to uncover critical information for an organisation or investigation. Recently, they have launched a new offering that focuses on the health & wellbeing of individuals and teams within organisations. Their clients can now download the fully functional app from Microsoft AppSource . Andy Slater, Commercial Director at Fact360, said: ·This is an incredible opportunity and achievement for us, and we are excited for our clients to start utilising the app·. Looking at how individuals and teams communicate in the workforce provides more helpful intelligence than asking how they feel. The cutting-edge technology looks at how employees communicate, maintain, and develop occupational health (whilst maintaining GDPR compliance). Andy continues: ·Fountain Partnership have been utilising FACT360 Wellness for a while and love the insights our technology provides·.
