We have an amazing program with awesome speakers and can·t wait to show you the first B2B platform we made since Indie Arena Booth Online and MAG Online! We partnered up with Xsolla Diamond Club who sponsor business tickets for the Hamburg Games Conference, yay! Apply for free tickets for Hamburg Games Conference here About Xsolla Diamond Club Xsolla Diamond Club is a group of video game developers and publishers who are looking to network, learn best practices and explore the best monetization tools for their games. Diamond Club·s members have access to gaming events tickets, subject matter experts, and monthly meet-ups with industry colleagues facing the same business successes and challenges. About Hamburg Games Conference One of the few B2B events which physically took place in 2020 was the Hamburg Games Conference , a conference which in the last ten years gathered the leaders and opinion makers in the games and media industry. The overarching topic in 2021 is ·Discoverability·. For a lot of developers and publishers it is challenging to find their audience in a world without any physical events but, with more distribution models, online platforms and stores than ever. At the same time, companies faced the challenge of how to find and onboard new employees without personal contact. From March 16-17, 2021, the Hamburg Games Conference offers a fully digital interactive multiplayer experience and selected expert online streams. Business attendees, founders and students from around the world will be able to explore the conference with their digital avatars, visit digital exhibitor booths and engage in matchmaking via integrated video chats.
