Koa and the Five Pirates of Mara sails this month The perfect tropical adventure for summer holidays Koa and the Five Pirates of Mara is getting ready to hit PC (Steam) and consoles on July 27th. This colorful tribute to classic 3D platform games is the result of the joint effort of 3 Spanish studios: Chibig, Talpa Games and Undercoders. The game is priced at 19.99·/$ and will have a 15% discount on all platforms for the launch. After the success of Summer in Mara (2020), Koa and Napopo sail again on this adventure through new islands where we can find countless treasures and we·ll meet again some familiar faces. From magical temples to cranky volcanoes, we'll gather a group of brave friends to chase down a group of mischievous pirates who have turned the city of Qälis upside down. We can't let them do it! Rebuild the city and get new outfits for Koa, help clean the waters of Mara to take care of its fauna and inhabitants and, above all, discover if you have a fearless little pirate inside you. Koa and the Five Pirates of Mara has influences from games like Super Mario 3D World, Crash Bandicoot and even The Legend of Zelda: Wind Waker; a sure bet for the nostalgic ones who grew up playing platformers and for those looking for a fun adventure for these summer vacations.
